Barnes-Jewish Hospital
New Tower - UNDERWAY

BJC HealthCare's Campus Renewal, a partnership of Barnes-Jewish Hospital (BJH), St. Louis Children's Hospital (SLCH) and Washington University School of Medicine, is a project to renew the Washington University Medical Campus. Launched in 2012, the project is transforming the campus through new construction and renovations, creating an environment and experience that matches the excellent care patients receive. Private rooms are a key component, along with major improvements to open and public areas, and to patient and visitor arrival and departure. The project is being completed in four phases:
